IT'S A HARD WINTER.

New York's Heart Is Touched by Tales of Distress.

"The Evening World's" Temporary Relief Fund Grows Rapidly.

Prompt Responses to Appeals for Worthy Suffering Families.

Worthy Suffering Families.

Not since the Winter of 1870 has the weather been so bitter cold, and not in thirty years have fuel and food stuffs been so night in price and so mean in weight and quality as the working becopie of this city have found them since has December. The poor are not only paying from $t to $200 a ton for coal, but they are buying it by the short ton. Half the time very many are existing without fire at all.

Go into any one of the "double-deckers." where the poorest of the poor abide, and you will find a grim system of sociability—one housewife allowing three or four neighbors to sity ber sooking stove for the day, and is in turn the recipient of their hospitality. In this way a scuttle of coal that costs 12 cents is made to last twenty-four hours.

Lawyer John L. Hill objected to a post ponement. He said that he had been put to 5 ponement. He said that he had been put to be post at full and the suit. Mr. Griffin said he was a scuttle of the cold, for two weeks.

Why cannot we examine one witness this afternoon and let the rest of the case go over until some future date?" asked Mr. Hill.

Up for Contempt. Pursuant to an order from Judge McCarthy, ex-Divek-eper Tom Gould appeared before Judge McGown, in the City Court, Chambers, this morning on a motion made by Lawyer Max Altmayer to punish him for contempt in disposing of $175 which the ex-divekeeper had won playing the races recently.

The suave Tom had been directed by the Court not to dispose of any money he might-acquire pending Leon S. Keller's Judgment for $540 for liquor furnished at the old Sans Souci Garden in West Thirty-dirst street.

A request from Gould's lawyer, ex-Judge J. W. Pitman, for a postponement on the piez of lilness was granted, and the hearing on the notion to funds was set down for Thurs. day next at 11 o'clock.

Hay and Produce Warehouse Destroyed by Fire.

The large frame building on Gowanus Bay, at the foot of Twenty-fifth street, Brooklyn, was totally destroyed by fire early this morning. The building was two stories in height, and covered a plot of ground 50x100 feet. It was owned by Charles A. Willard, a coal dealer, and occupied by Builkemer, Blooming dale & Co., dealers in hay and produce.

The canal-boat, Capt. Carey lying a longaide the dock, took fire. She was floated out of danger. The damage to fit boat will not exceed $200.

The owner of the building estimates the loss at $10,000. The stock was valued at $7,000.
